

DiaLogos
(through the Word spoken)

We will take a tour of Christian history from the Apostolic era to the present day. Along the way, the main character, an American poet, philosopher, author and traveller, will meet with fascinating personalities in history and dialogue with them on the meaning and purpose of cherished ideals and the hidden possibilities of every moment of life while trying to survive the trials and triumphs of the centuries. Teagan Palmer, whose perspective we follow throughout, chose to spend an entire summer around the Mediterranean following in the footsteps of the earliest disciples and soaking all he could from the shaded silences of some of the most notable and often isolated environments in the history of our people. Nearing the end of his exhaustive journeys, after all that he has seen and often dared to touch, he has become a man with burgeoning dreams and an expansive vision.

Touring alone on a sequestered plot of earth, following the advice of local guides, he chose to rest for a time beneath a prominent outcropping that had obligingly jutted beyond the sloping soil struggling to contain it. Seeking to avoid the midday heat, he closed his eyes, so lately full of wonders, and passed the time trying to gather them all, until he fell into a deep and dreamful slumber.

And this is his dream...